

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CAPSYS® Announces Release of the FileBound® InBound Wizard

Wizard to Enhance Existing Integration between CAPSYS CAPTURE and the FileBound Document Management Solution

Colorado Springs, Colo. (September 29, 2009) – CAPSYS, a leading software developer of Web-based document capture and capture process management software, today announced the availability of a new software module, the FileBound InBound Wizard. The FileBound InBound Wizard complements the existing integration between CAPSYS CAPTURE and the FileBound document management solution. CAPSYS currently offers a document output module which releases documents and their corresponding metadata into both FileBound On-Site or Filebound On-Demand.

The FileBound InBound Wizard automatically connects to the FileBound document management solution and imports FileBound project information directly into CAPSYS CAPTURE making it easier for system administrators to configure the system for quick deployment. This project information that is imported includes such application details as document types, index fields (what FileBound refers to as “separators and dividers”) and user security and credentials. Once imported, all that is left to do is create the process maps that control how documents are routed using the CAPSYS CAPTURE process management solution – then start scanning and importing documents into FileBound!

CAPSYS CAPTURE™ is a thin client application specifically designed for the Internet, giving users a simple and easy to use enterprise-wide tool for capturing and sharing documents at a lower cost than traditional capture software. The CAPSYS CAPTURE client is a browser-based, thin client that requires no workstation software to be installed or maintained. The software boasts a powerful workflow and design component allowing clients to tailor and manage their capture processes based on the unique application and document type requirements specific to their business. It allows companies to design their own capture process graphically, without programming or scripting. The ability to deploy powerful advanced capture processing functionality like optical character recognition, barcode recognition and forms recognition are also available to streamline the process of characterizing and indexing documents.

FileBound is an affordable document management solution that addresses critical business needs and eliminates soft cost expenditures for organizations of all sizes. The challenge today is implementing seamless solutions that find, control, optimize and protect information created from many sources in different formats. FileBound addresses a range of user needs and offers broad functionality, including secure access, workflow and document archiving. Only FileBound offers unlimited user licensing, allowing you to adopt the solution across your entire organization.

Mark Creglow, COO for Marex Group, Inc. of Marex Group, Inc. states that, "CAPSYS CAPTURE is a strong solution for partners and clients looking for Web-based document capture. With this new wizard, CAPSYS makes it easier than ever to deploy joint solutions that meet the needs of our users."

"This new wizard further demonstrates our commitment to FileBound partners and users. We have always enjoyed a great working relationship with the team at Marex Group. They have great products and a strong partner channel, many of which are our partners too. We are always interested in making it easier to quickly deploy integrated solutions for our partners." added Greg Cooke, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for CAPSYS.
